JIM GAFFNEY MAY BUY THE DODGERS

Former Owner of Braves Approaches Ebbets With Purchase Proposition.

NEW YORK., Feb. 1.-Charles H Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn ball club, practically admitted last night that a syndicate was trying to secure conrol of the Dodgers.

"While no direct offer was made," said Ebbets, "I was approached in an informal way, but nothing was decided upon at the time.

"I told the parties that I wasn't thinking of retiring from baseball." continued the Brooklyn magnate, "and that nothing but a mighty big offer would influence me to quit."

Mr. Ebbets, however, will be guided by the attitude of the McKeever brothers, who hold a big block of stock. It is rumored that they are ready to sell if a big profit can be realized.

The syndicate that is trying to purchase the club is headed by James F. Gaffney. Mr. Ebbets refused last night to place a price on the club.
